

BORN WITH THREE EYES. VISITED HIS OLD FRIENDS. HAD THE VICAR ARRESTED. HE WAS STARVING TO DEATH. KILLED IT IN "I" STATION.

This Little Grosseman Girl Has Extra Fingers and Toes.

Otherwise She Is Perfectly Sound and in Good Health.

Physicians Interested in This Unfortunate Freak of Nature.

There's an eight-pound mite of humanity in the tenement 14 Orchard street, who has never looked upon the light of day, and, indeed, never will, a physician emphatically declares.

The little one—it is a girl—is born without eyes or even an optic nerve. Her eyeballs, too, are missing.

Although to come into the world in this unfortunate condition is a rare happening, yet that is not all the peculiarity in connection with this babe of the east side.

Altogether the little girl has twenty-three fingers, thumbs and toes, three more than the usual number allotted to mankind.

Each tiny pink hand has five tiny pink fingers, and the left foot has six perfectly formed toes. The surplus of fingers is due to the growth of a second little finger, which had been formed on the outer side of the regular small finger. In this respect both hands are similar, and both of the extra little fingers are almost perfectly formed.

In every other respect the child is said to be perfect by the physician who was present at its birth.

The father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Grosseman, of 14 Orchard street. Mr. Grosseman is an upholsterer. They have been married seven years, and have lived on the third floor of the house mentioned for several months. Four children have been born to the couple. With the exception of the last one all are dead.

The father and mother are both healthy and hearty, and have scarcely ever had an ailment. The mother, Mrs. Grosseman, gave birth to the child on the morning of the 1st of July. The child was born at the residence of the father, Mr. Grosseman, at 14 Orchard street, was the physician in attendance.

I have heard of cases of this kind, said Mr. Grosseman, but they are as rare as the case of this child. I have had to do with thousands of children in my professional career, but this is the first case of the kind actually to come under my immediate care.

"Yes, the child is perfectly sound, no eyes," continued the physician, "and there is not a vestige of an optic nerve that I can discover. It is a wonderful case indeed."

The child's eyes are fairly well-developed, and they are brown, and there is nothing like eyes behind them. And several medical friends have examined the child, and expect to later have the opinion of Dr. Knapp, the eminent eye specialist.

Dr. Knapp, who has been called to see the child, said that he would not doubt live, provided the parents afforded it the proper treatment.

"You could not blame the parents if they feel that they have done much better off," he went on. "It is a most unfortunate case, indeed."

"I have examined the child, and I am sure that it is a case of this kind, and I have never seen a case of this kind before."

An "Evening World" reporter visited Mr. Grosseman, and found that the child was born with three extra fingers and toes. The child was born with three extra fingers and toes.

The girl weighs about eight pounds and has a luxuriant growth of black hair. With the exception of the lack of eyes, its features are regular and pretty.

"Don't tell my wife," said the husband, drawing the reporter aside, "that the babe will never see, for the doctor thought it best to keep her ignorant of the fact. She will be heart-broken when she finds it out."

USED A PAIR OF SHOES.

Diets Gives Keith a Stab Wound Instead of His $70 Board Bill.

Charles Dietz, fifty-one years old, was committed without bail by Justice Burke in Harlem Court, this morning, to await the result of a stab wound inflicted on the head of a woman named Mrs. Keith, who was the mother of a child named Keith, who was the mother of a child named Keith.

"Bob," of Cat Alley Fame, Returned After a Long Absence.

Belief that He Has Been Cured of Alcoholic Habits.

Physicians Interested in This Unfortunate Freak of Nature.

There's an eight-pound mite of humanity in the tenement 14 Orchard street, who has never looked upon the light of day, and, indeed, never will, a physician emphatically declares.

The little one—it is a girl—is born without eyes or even an optic nerve. Her eyeballs, too, are missing.

Although to come into the world in this unfortunate condition is a rare happening, yet that is not all the peculiarity in connection with this babe of the east side.

Altogether the little girl has twenty-three fingers, thumbs and toes, three more than the usual number allotted to mankind.

Each tiny pink hand has five tiny pink fingers, and the left foot has six perfectly formed toes. The surplus of fingers is due to the growth of a second little finger, which had been formed on the outer side of the regular small finger. In this respect both hands are similar, and both of the extra little fingers are almost perfectly formed.

In every other respect the child is said to be perfect by the physician who was present at its birth.

The father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Grosseman, of 14 Orchard street. Mr. Grosseman is an upholsterer. They have been married seven years, and have lived on the third floor of the house mentioned for several months. Four children have been born to the couple. With the exception of the last one all are dead.

The father and mother are both healthy and hearty, and have scarcely ever had an ailment. The mother, Mrs. Grosseman, gave birth to the child on the morning of the 1st of July. The child was born at the residence of the father, Mr. Grosseman, at 14 Orchard street, was the physician in attendance.

I have heard of cases of this kind, said Mr. Grosseman, but they are as rare as the case of this child. I have had to do with thousands of children in my professional career, but this is the first case of the kind actually to come under my immediate care.

"Yes, the child is perfectly sound, no eyes," continued the physician, "and there is not a vestige of an optic nerve that I can discover. It is a wonderful case indeed."

The child's eyes are fairly well-developed, and they are brown, and there is nothing like eyes behind them. And several medical friends have examined the child, and expect to later have the opinion of Dr. Knapp, the eminent eye specialist.

Dr. Knapp, who has been called to see the child, said that he would not doubt live, provided the parents afforded it the proper treatment.

"You could not blame the parents if they feel that they have done much better off," he went on. "It is a most unfortunate case, indeed."

"I have examined the child, and I am sure that it is a case of this kind, and I have never seen a case of this kind before."

An "Evening World" reporter visited Mr. Grosseman, and found that the child was born with three extra fingers and toes. The child was born with three extra fingers and toes.

The girl weighs about eight pounds and has a luxuriant growth of black hair. With the exception of the lack of eyes, its features are regular and pretty.

"Don't tell my wife," said the husband, drawing the reporter aside, "that the babe will never see, for the doctor thought it best to keep her ignorant of the fact. She will be heart-broken when she finds it out."

Pretty Musician Says Comedian Grofe-Griff Annoyed Her.

He Grew Desperate When Rejected by Little Mitcheison.

Physicians Interested in This Unfortunate Freak of Nature.

There's an eight-pound mite of humanity in the tenement 14 Orchard street, who has never looked upon the light of day, and, indeed, never will, a physician emphatically declares.

The little one—it is a girl—is born without eyes or even an optic nerve. Her eyeballs, too, are missing.

Although to come into the world in this unfortunate condition is a rare happening, yet that is not all the peculiarity in connection with this babe of the east side.

Altogether the little girl has twenty-three fingers, thumbs and toes, three more than the usual number allotted to mankind.

Each tiny pink hand has five tiny pink fingers, and the left foot has six perfectly formed toes. The surplus of fingers is due to the growth of a second little finger, which had been formed on the outer side of the regular small finger. In this respect both hands are similar, and both of the extra little fingers are almost perfectly formed.

In every other respect the child is said to be perfect by the physician who was present at its birth.

The father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Grosseman, of 14 Orchard street. Mr. Grosseman is an upholsterer. They have been married seven years, and have lived on the third floor of the house mentioned for several months. Four children have been born to the couple. With the exception of the last one all are dead.

The father and mother are both healthy and hearty, and have scarcely ever had an ailment. The mother, Mrs. Grosseman, gave birth to the child on the morning of the 1st of July. The child was born at the residence of the father, Mr. Grosseman, at 14 Orchard street, was the physician in attendance.

I have heard of cases of this kind, said Mr. Grosseman, but they are as rare as the case of this child. I have had to do with thousands of children in my professional career, but this is the first case of the kind actually to come under my immediate care.

"Yes, the child is perfectly sound, no eyes," continued the physician, "and there is not a vestige of an optic nerve that I can discover. It is a wonderful case indeed."

The child's eyes are fairly well-developed, and they are brown, and there is nothing like eyes behind them. And several medical friends have examined the child, and expect to later have the opinion of Dr. Knapp, the eminent eye specialist.

Dr. Knapp, who has been called to see the child, said that he would not doubt live, provided the parents afforded it the proper treatment.

"You could not blame the parents if they feel that they have done much better off," he went on. "It is a most unfortunate case, indeed."

"I have examined the child, and I am sure that it is a case of this kind, and I have never seen a case of this kind before."

An "Evening World" reporter visited Mr. Grosseman, and found that the child was born with three extra fingers and toes. The child was born with three extra fingers and toes.

The girl weighs about eight pounds and has a luxuriant growth of black hair. With the exception of the lack of eyes, its features are regular and pretty.

"Don't tell my wife," said the husband, drawing the reporter aside, "that the babe will never see, for the doctor thought it best to keep her ignorant of the fact. She will be heart-broken when she finds it out."

Victim Thought to Be Thomas B. Taylor, of Jersey City.

St His Death in an Unknown Manner in Brooklyn.

Physicians Interested in This Unfortunate Freak of Nature.

There's an eight-pound mite of humanity in the tenement 14 Orchard street, who has never looked upon the light of day, and, indeed, never will, a physician emphatically declares.

The little one—it is a girl—is born without eyes or even an optic nerve. Her eyeballs, too, are missing.

Although to come into the world in this unfortunate condition is a rare happening, yet that is not all the peculiarity in connection with this babe of the east side.

Altogether the little girl has twenty-three fingers, thumbs and toes, three more than the usual number allotted to mankind.

Each tiny pink hand has five tiny pink fingers, and the left foot has six perfectly formed toes. The surplus of fingers is due to the growth of a second little finger, which had been formed on the outer side of the regular small finger. In this respect both hands are similar, and both of the extra little fingers are almost perfectly formed.

In every other respect the child is said to be perfect by the physician who was present at its birth.

The father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Grosseman, of 14 Orchard street. Mr. Grosseman is an upholsterer. They have been married seven years, and have lived on the third floor of the house mentioned for several months. Four children have been born to the couple. With the exception of the last one all are dead.

The father and mother are both healthy and hearty, and have scarcely ever had an ailment. The mother, Mrs. Grosseman, gave birth to the child on the morning of the 1st of July. The child was born at the residence of the father, Mr. Grosseman, at 14 Orchard street, was the physician in attendance.

I have heard of cases of this kind, said Mr. Grosseman, but they are as rare as the case of this child. I have had to do with thousands of children in my professional career, but this is the first case of the kind actually to come under my immediate care.

"Yes, the child is perfectly sound, no eyes," continued the physician, "and there is not a vestige of an optic nerve that I can discover. It is a wonderful case indeed."

The child's eyes are fairly well-developed, and they are brown, and there is nothing like eyes behind them. And several medical friends have examined the child, and expect to later have the opinion of Dr. Knapp, the eminent eye specialist.

Dr. Knapp, who has been called to see the child, said that he would not doubt live, provided the parents afforded it the proper treatment.

"You could not blame the parents if they feel that they have done much better off," he went on. "It is a most unfortunate case, indeed."

"I have examined the child, and I am sure that it is a case of this kind, and I have never seen a case of this kind before."

An "Evening World" reporter visited Mr. Grosseman, and found that the child was born with three extra fingers and toes. The child was born with three extra fingers and toes.

The girl weighs about eight pounds and has a luxuriant growth of black hair. With the exception of the lack of eyes, its features are regular and pretty.

"Don't tell my wife," said the husband, drawing the reporter aside, "that the babe will never see, for the doctor thought it best to keep her ignorant of the fact. She will be heart-broken when she finds it out."

Victim Thought to Be Thomas B. Taylor, of Jersey City.

St His Death in an Unknown Manner in Brooklyn.

Physicians Interested in This Unfortunate Freak of Nature.

There's an eight-pound mite of humanity in the tenement 14 Orchard street, who has never looked upon the light of day, and, indeed, never will, a physician emphatically declares.

The little one—it is a girl—is born without eyes or even an optic nerve. Her eyeballs, too, are missing.

Although to come into the world in this unfortunate condition is a rare happening, yet that is not all the peculiarity in connection with this babe of the east side.

Altogether the little girl has twenty-three fingers, thumbs and toes, three more than the usual number allotted to mankind.

Each tiny pink hand has five tiny pink fingers, and the left foot has six perfectly formed toes. The surplus of fingers is due to the growth of a second little finger, which had been formed on the outer side of the regular small finger. In this respect both hands are similar, and both of the extra little fingers are almost perfectly formed.

In every other respect the child is said to be perfect by the physician who was present at its birth.

The father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Grosseman, of 14 Orchard street. Mr. Grosseman is an upholsterer. They have been married seven years, and have lived on the third floor of the house mentioned for several months. Four children have been born to the couple. With the exception of the last one all are dead.

The father and mother are both healthy and hearty, and have scarcely ever had an ailment. The mother, Mrs. Grosseman, gave birth to the child on the morning of the 1st of July. The child was born at the residence of the father, Mr. Grosseman, at 14 Orchard street, was the physician in attendance.

I have heard of cases of this kind, said Mr. Grosseman, but they are as rare as the case of this child. I have had to do with thousands of children in my professional career, but this is the first case of the kind actually to come under my immediate care.

"Yes, the child is perfectly sound, no eyes," continued the physician, "and there is not a vestige of an optic nerve that I can discover. It is a wonderful case indeed."

The child's eyes are fairly well-developed, and they are brown, and there is nothing like eyes behind them. And several medical friends have examined the child, and expect to later have the opinion of Dr. Knapp, the eminent eye specialist.

Dr. Knapp, who has been called to see the child, said that he would not doubt live, provided the parents afforded it the proper treatment.

"You could not blame the parents if they feel that they have done much better off," he went on. "It is a most unfortunate case, indeed."

"I have examined the child, and I am sure that it is a case of this kind, and I have never seen a case of this kind before."

An "Evening World" reporter visited Mr. Grosseman, and found that the child was born with three extra fingers and toes. The child was born with three extra fingers and toes.

The girl weighs about eight pounds and has a luxuriant growth of black hair. With the exception of the lack of eyes, its features are regular and pretty.

"Don't tell my wife," said the husband, drawing the reporter aside, "that the babe will never see, for the doctor thought it best to keep her ignorant of the fact. She will be heart-broken when she finds it out."

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Joseph Saliman Probably Fatally Wounded by John Orian.

Had Been Making a Social Call Upon Him and Friends.

Broke Up in a Row and Bullet Whistled About Freely.

John Orian, of 75 North Second street, is held in the Bedford avenue station, Williamsburg, on a charge of attempting to kill Joseph Saliman, of 10 North Fifth street.

Saliman went to the North Second street house, which is kept by a Mrs. Orian, this morning to call on his friends. At the house he was met by John Orian, who was making a social call upon him and friends.

There were no witnesses to the tragedy, as far as the police have been able to ascertain, and the accident was not until about 10 o'clock this morning, when Edward Hersey, porter, found the mangled corpse jammed underneath the platform.

The employees of the road think that the man may have committed suicide by jumping on the track in front of an engine instead of having been accidentally killed. The body was found near the platform track.

After it was dragged out it was seen that the victim had received a deep gash across the head and that his legs had been broken.

The police were notified, and they are now trying to establish his identity. From papers found in his pocket it was ascertained that the unfortunate man was Thomas B. Taylor, of Jersey City. A tax certificate for $7.75 was made out in his name.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

Saliman was apparently sixty-five years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and gray hair, and he wore a dark suit, a white shirt, striped trousers, black stockings, congress gaiters and black soft hat. The body was found near the platform track.

It Was in Gilbert's Pocket, and Stopped a Stray Bullet.

Another Man Shot in a Mysterious Manner in Brooklyn.

Struggled Desperately with Her Father and Brothers.

Were Separated, but He Proposed a Reconciliation.

John Kelly, twenty-eight years old, of 322 Driggs avenue, was held in the Egan street court, Williamsburg, today on a charge of stabbing his wife, Bertha. The woman is in a dangerous condition at the home of her parents, 90 Grand street.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

STABBED HIS WIFE.

Struggled Desperately with Her Father and Brothers.

Were Separated, but He Proposed a Reconciliation.

John Kelly, twenty-eight years old, of 322 Driggs avenue, was held in the Egan street court, Williamsburg, today on a charge of stabbing his wife, Bertha. The woman is in a dangerous condition at the home of her parents, 90 Grand street.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs. Kelly, who is the daughter of John Kelly, was married to Kelly about a year ago, but they soon found that they could not agree. Kelly said his wife was too fond of dress, and the woman retorted that he was too fond of whiskey. About a week ago the couple had another fierce quarrel and separated.

Mrs.